

WHAT?

Maplewoodstock is a free two-day music and arts festival “of and for the community” that is the highlight of the Essex County summer music scene. In addition to the live music representing rock, reggae, R&B, and more there are typically 50 local art vendors selling wares from paintings to t-shirts, 20 food vendors offering everything from lobster rolls to pulled pork sandwiches, a large KidZone with mini golf, face painting, and bouncy rides, and a beer garden with NJ-sourced beer.

More than 22 bands perform over the two days -- most with local ties to the thriving Maplewood and South Orange music community – and culminating on Saturday and Sunday nights with regional and national acts.

Over the years, Maplewoodstock has presented acts such as Galactic, Third World, Turkuaz, Los Lobos, The Wailers, Norah Jones, Robert Randolph Family Band, Aztec Two Step, Railroad Earth, Steve Forbert, Raul Malo, Shemekia Copeland, The Smithereens, and Joan Osborne.

WHERE?

The festival takes place in Memorial Park in the heart of Maplewood, NJ -- 160 Dunnell Rd, Maplewood, NJ, 07040 (directly across from NJ Transit's Maplewood train station).

Many attendees walk to the festival with lawn chairs and picnic baskets on-shoulder. Others find parking on the local streets around the park.

With Maplewood Village just steps away, there are plenty of opportunities for attendees to also patronize our local merchants – whether to pick up snacks for picnic baskets, cool off with a drink-and-a-bite in our restaurants, or pick up a memento in one of our gift shops.

WHEN?

The festival typically takes place the weekend after Independence Day. In 2023, it will be held on Sat, July 8, and Sun, July 9. Each day kicks off at noon and runs until about 10 p.m.

WHY?

Maplewoodstock was originally offered in 2003 as a single-day event to highlight local bands of the Maplewood and South Orange communities. Over the years, it has grown to become a local summer tradition, as families, friends, and neighbors bring out blankets, lawn chairs, and picnic baskets for a wonderful weekend of music, art, food, and the best of the Maplewood/South Orange community.

The mission of the Maplewoodstock Board is to simply offer the best free music and arts festival to the community that we can. Thus, the event has expanded to offer regional and national acts and more choices for food, drink, arts, and kid's activities.

HOW?

The free two-day Maplewoodstock Music and Arts Festival is 100% self-supported event.

Each year, the Festival raises money through sales of custom-designed t-shirts, lawn signs, and other merchandise, through art and food vendor fees, through advertisement and sponsorship opportunities, and through band application fees.

The money we raise funds our headline acts, professional stage rental and sound support, the cost to produce our merchandise, and other nominal costs associated with producing our two-day festival.

100% of the funds we raise – through the graciousness of community support in buying our merchandise, advertising with us, and paying band and vendor fees – is put back into the costs to run the festival.

WHO?

The 9-member Maplewoodstock Board is just your average group of music-, food-, and arts-loving, and supporting neighbors, friends, and colleagues. You might see us out on the town supporting local bands, attending arts events, and at block parties and summer bbq's.

We are all volunteers – motivated by the spirit of the event.
